American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, s the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmunship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 86 by 26 inches, will be made by MR. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a proposal, of this Tribute to the memory of him who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscsiptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving. Philadelphia, July 31.

Exchange & Broker's Office,

ROMULUS RIGGS.
AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

Ten Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber about the 4th of August, Negro Woman LOUIZA—she is 25 years old, about 5 feet five inches high, and stout; has some of her front teeth out, and is apt to laugh when spoken to; she has a sister Marinda and a mother living in Georgetown, one above Semmes's tavern, and the other on Herring Hill, where she has been harbored for two weeks, and left there to come home, but has not done so. I expect she can be found in Georgetown or Alexandria, where she has many acquaintances. I will give the above reward if brought home, or lodged in jail so that I get her again.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber's service, on Saturday night the 15th inst. Negro woman TREACE or TREACY—she is five feet two or three inches high, about 30 years of age, of a very dark complexion, and when particularly examined is very apt to confound herself.—It is deemed unnecessary to mention her clothing, as she has all of them with her, and being extremely artful, she no doubt will change them and endeavor to pass for a free woman. She is well acquainted in Charles county, Prince George's, Alexandria and the City, as about 5 years ago she made her escape, and was 6 or 7 months about the Lower Ferry, leading to Alexandria; and from thence to Washington City, where she acquired an extensive acquaintance among the Negroes belonging to John Brent, esq.; and the greater part of said Negroes belong now to William and Rober Brent, esqrs. and Mr. Dudley Diggs. Negro Treace has a scar on the back part of her neck, occasioned by a seaton put for the benefit of her eyes, which are very weak at this time. I will give 10 dollars if taken in the county and secured in jail, or if out of the county and secured as aforesaid, so that I get her again, 25 dollars, and all reasonable charges paid if brought home. All persons are forewarned harboring or employing said Negro at their peril, as the law will be rigorously put in force against any offender.

FIFTY DOLLARS REWARD.
I WILL give the above reward for apprehending and lodging in any jail in the District of Columbia, a person by the name of JOHN POST, a Bricklayer and Stone-mason, who has been at work for about two months past at Fort Washington, and was discharged on the 7th of September inst.—He says he was born in the state of New-York; is about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, and has sandy hair: he had with him an apprentice boy, nearly grown. A few days previous to his leaving Fort Washington he took the liberty of borrowing, in the name of Mr. John Cohagen, from a lady at that place 15 dollars, which was not known till after he left it; and immediately after he was discharged and paid off, he forged two checks in the name of the Subscriber, on the Farmers' Bank of Alexandria, one of which he procured the money for at the Bank, and the other he passed to a person in Alexandria, which was detected and refused.—Previous to his coming to Fort Washington, he worked in the City of Washington, where he said he intended to work again; but it is probable he has not stopped so near the theatre of his villany.
Persons are cautioned against being imposed on by him. BOLIVIA LAWS.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
AND DAILY ADVERTISER, PUBLISHED BY
SAMUEL SNOWDEN,
ROYAL-STREET.

Daily Gazette, 7 dolls...Country, 5 dolls.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1818.

To H. and X.—

Philo-Lucius had my authority when he assured you of the free pardon I should grant for any indecorum either in the expression or substance of your replies.—For it is impossible that the manifested malignity of defeated argument, exposed ignorance, or conceited vanity should ruffle my temper, how ill soever you may imagine it. The tremendous oath, irrevokable both to gods and men, which you and your alphabetical relatives have taken, though rash and impious in a high degree, is certainly not so destitute of policy as one would conclude upon a hasty view of it.——When one of a family has been severely handled, it would be to disclaim entirely all benefit from experience, to encounter similar chastisement for similar offences. It is not that I do not think your pretensions to the fine genius of the critic, the accuracy of the historian, or even to the delicacy of the gentleman have not been sufficiently refuted, that I write, but because I wish not to leave a doubt on the public mind upon these several heads. The attack of Lucius, you say, was wholly unprovoked.—It is not necessary to rest the disproof of a charge upon a counter declaration, when it is susceptible of the strongest possible evidence. It was you who first wrote several essays to prove the insipidity and absurdity of the critique on the fourth canto of Childe Harold, and to show the tedious vanity of what was sometime afterwards said by a writer in giving an account of the Loo choo islanders.——Professing yourself a critique in the face of the world, you were the legitimate subject of critical animadversion: and whatever was said of your productions was neither improper, nor, perhaps, without its utility.

What then was the original subject of controversy? You mentioned that there was a difference between belles lettres and poetical publications. I asserted that whatever was a truly poetical, must necessarily be a belles lettres publication: and that in the expression of your opinions you manifested so little elegance or accuracy of diction, it was extremely improbable you could properly appreciate the excellencies of others.

You have abandoned your definitions—given up the propriety of your grammatical distinctions, and tacitly yielded to the correctness of mine,—and as a succedaneum for argument, wit and knowledge, poured out your long collected store of unmingled scurrility—the last resort of defeated controversy, but the ordinary weapon of ignorance and vulgarity. Wherever you have quoted my sentiments or those of my friend, you have treated them unfairly—and made them non-sense by making them your own.

Let us now see what your last most classical epistle contains. You say, "I cannot conceive of what family these Lucii are composed." Individuals compose a family—but this is the first time I have ever heard families composed an individual. Is it possible that a man (writing in a controversy for public inspection, and that controversy chiefly relating to the propriety of language) should write such a sentence, and expect to gain credit when he speaks of his college studies? If he is in reality a collegiate, (which I do not profess to be, or think it an honor merely to have been) I think it will be readily admitted the scholar does no honor to his academy; as all the learning of the faculty was defeated in attempting to triumph over his innate dulness. The same information and happiness of expression which dictated the last sentence quoted, induced the use of the words, "verbage" and "vituperence".*

If your story of a certain nobleman and Anthony Williams is apposite at all, it shews I reckoned without the consent of my host, in entertaining the vain expectation that you would comprehend my irony before I had washed off the filth of your understanding. "You have less wit than Lucius is willing to allow you," Philo-Lucius said, "if you expect to succeed in a contest by playing off a few sparks of impotent heat, when your adversary is armed with a well tempered blade."

In answer to this, you say his third paragraph "introduces to us 'a well-tempered blade'—quite a misnomer in fact or in metaphor; for Philo is very evidently an ill-tempered blade."

This is the same sort of wit and learning you displayed when you said Cowper's Task was a moral writer. Every body sees the beauty of confounding the sword and the warrior who fights with it. Again you say, "when my alphabetical relative looks back through the long vista ('the long tract of time' is insufferably prosaic) of years, during which his locks have been blanched, he will always consider it most shameful to mistake facts."

To show the disingenuousness of your quotation, and the unfairness of your dealing, it will be necessary merely to repeat the sentence of Philo-L. upon which yours is a critique.—"I think the learned H. himself will, upon reconsideration, admit that he has met with many persons (in the long tract of time over which he has already passed, if he find not the example at home) who have not much accuracy of knowledge or superfluity of ideas, notwithstanding their lucubrations." I cannot but remark the absurdity of insisting that because a prose composition is not poetry, it is for that reason faulty; nor omit to say that the word vista is always (when properly) prospectively used—never retrospectively.

You roundly assert that Philo-Lucius unfortunately "rather late in life commenced scholar." It is wholly indifferent to the public at what age the knowledge and capacity were acquired which are necessary to amuse or instruct them; but it is very important that he who attempts it should in reality possess the ability. It is not pleasant to me to give a direct contradiction to any one, not even to one whose writing has exhibited no single feature of the scholar or the gentleman; but I shall take leave to say that the foundation of whatever scholarship either myself or Philo-Lucius has, was laid at a very early age.

You say it is too humiliating that such a tyro in literature should speak disparagingly of a writer who first gave us "what may be called the philosophy of history." You are wrong both in your fact and your inference.—It was Voltaire who first united philosophy with history: and every man of candor and sense will, upon looking at the sentence as written by Philo-Lucius, see that he has thrown in his unimportant mite to swell the strain of that noble historian's praise. But it will not be so easy to clear yourself from the imputation of arrogance when you charge Gibbon with going beyond his depth.

Now for your chef d'œuvre in reasoning. "My friend H." you declare, "did say, (as a person would state a simple fact) that the poem of 'Christ's Kirk on the Green,' (and he might have added that of 'Peebles to the Play,' very lately found at Oxford) was written by James I. of Scotland." Well, this is your proposition about a poem I acknowledge I have neither read nor seen. Now to the proof: You quote from Robertson the following sentences:

"The English made amends for their injustice in detaining that prince a prisoner, by their generous care of his education."
"It was the misfortune of James that his maxims and manners were too refined for the age in which he lived."

From Hume you cite this:

"But though the king, (Henry IV.) by detaining James in England, had shown himself somewhat deficient in generosity, he made ample amends by giving that prince an excellent education."

I ask emphatically, do these quotations prove that James I. was the author of the poem called 'Christ's Kirk on the Green,' or indeed that he was the author of any book or poem whatever? Again you cite a sentence or two of what Hume says of James VI.:

"We shall mention the king himself at the end of these English writers; because that is his place, when considered as an author." "It may safely be affirmed that the mediocrity of James's talents in literature, is one cause of the contempt under which his memory labors, and which is often carried by party writers to a great extent."

Philo-Lucius said James's productions were "silly trash or learned lumber."—Your own evidence distinctly supports Philo-L.'s idea: it proves James VI. both an author and a silly one; but any thing as well as what you intended.

Pedantry is the display of useless learning: your knowledge has not helped you out of your difficulty—wherefore, it should be much more proper to assimilate you to your countryman, "the prince of pedants," than Philo-Lucius.

You accuse my sentences with languor, and say they are wholly without nerve.—Before I conclude, permit me to tell you, if I chose I could compress the united energy and pith of all your replies in a single period. I could say—you "pedagogue"—you "sciolist"—you "fat"—you "swaggerer"—you "globeful of vanity and verbiage"—you have "a Cibberian forehead and Cibberian brain." Although I freely admit this language would be extremely unfit for me to use, yet (as a great letter writer has said) I see no reason to believe it would be inappropriately applied.

With an emendation of your motto, I shall beg leave to be excused from further correspondence. You do not (in modesty) pretend to be a knight of the ancient order of the thistle, and therefore cannot hope to appropriate successfully their motto, or expect to be taken for more than a very clumsy Scotsman. If, then, you had taken, instead of the motto of the order of the thistle ("nemo me impune lacessit," and "noli me tangere"), what has been said to be a liberal translation thereof—"Do not touch me, or you'll get the itch"—you would have displayed your modesty and judgment in the selection. You may now pass in safety where you will. LUCIUS.

* He means, I suppose, verbiage and vituperation, and will say the printers have not adhered to the orthography of his manuscript, as he said about Bardolow—but a compositor informed me that he did not depart from H.'s manuscript in spelling that word.

The highest prize in the Masonic Hall Lottery, a capital of Fifty Thousand Dollars, was drawn yesterday afternoon by No 7,966. In the drawing of this prize, we have again to note the great success attending adventurers at Cohen's Office, where the lucky ticket was obtained—we understand the owner is a gentleman of this city. [Phil. D. Adv.

In the Aurora of Saturday last, Duane has republished the article from the National Intelligencer, respecting the probable course of business in that body at the approaching session, which has been republished in the papers generally, and accompanied with some remarks, which may or may not be worthy the attention of those more immediately concerned. Among them, we notice particularly the following. In reply to Mr. Gales's remark, that "we are at peace with all the world," Duane says—

"Excepting the Seminoles, who are in a fair way to be put out of the world."

To the declaration that our revenue is abundant—Duane answers—"At the expense of internal industry ruined—circulation paralised—and bankruptcy pervading almost every family of the free industrious population."

And to the assertion that "no taxes are to be laid," the Colonel says—"What tax can be more exceptionable, than that which is levid under a mask, paid to whom one knows not who—to support those who do not care for the public sufferings by which they profit—what tax can be more cruel than those which now afflict this country."

Here is a sad and sombre picture of the state of things in our country—that is, that part of the picture which we are able to understand. What is meant by 'circulation' being 'paralised,' is not perfectly clear—whether it is circulation of the blood, of intelligence, of money, or of office. Either of them, however, is a bad affair for some persons, and some of them for all. Nor do we precisely understand what is meant by taxes being 'paid to whom one knows not who." But as the expression implies uncertainty in the disposition of the public money, it must of course be interesting.

There have lately been imported into N. York, several of the date bearing palm trees, from the groves of Arabia Felix, for cultivation in the southern states. Dr. Mitchell observes, that the date is "savory and delicious, and instead of cloying, it grows upon the appetite; to the stomach it is more than food; it is one of the best preventatives of disease." He states, that "the tree was, by the ancient Greeks, called Phœnix," as, after being burned to the ground, a new tree shoots from the roots. Hence, he says, "has arisen the story of a young Phœnix growing out of the ashes of its parents"—the poets having transformed a tree to a bird.

A couple of beautiful Gazellas, or Antelopes, so celebrated in Oriental romances, and some seeds of the Asiatic oak, by far the most durable of all timber, have been also brought to New-York, for breeding and culture in our country of all climates.

We were amused by a strange coincidence between two exhibitions in Salem lately. The Albiness was distinguished by her soft and white hair, and by the strong and changeable color of her eyes.—At the same time was brought to Salem from Asia, by mere incidental occurrence, the Mus Musculus Albus, which is distinguished by the same white hair, and the same bright color of the eye, and like the beautiful female, differing from its beautiful species only in these two most interesting circumstances. It has been long a doubt whether the distinction has been permanent; but if we may reason from analogy in the one case to the other, we might be led to suppose it was not. The classification has been accordingly, and may not analogy extend throughout in regard to colors? [Salem Register.

How happily are the citizens of the United States situated, for the cultivation of the natural and physical sciences! how many different climates are embraced by the immense territory of your great republic, from the regions beyond your northern lakes, quite to the Gulf of Mexico! how many discoveries will be the consequence of the investigation, the description and the comparison of so many animals, plants, minerals and fossils! an acquaintance with your continent, and the enumeration of its productions, will contribute to the solution of many problems. What illumination will it reflect on Europe for the light it has received from her! You have a great share, sir, in this new glory which awaits your country; which glory is the more secure, inasmuch as the exertions necessary to establish it are necessarily connected with the advancement of culture, the progress of population, and the operation of that system of public economy, which arises from the happiness and liberality of your political organization.

MR. SALISBURY,—

Sir, The following is an extract of a Talk delivered at Seneca Village, near Buffalo, on the 29th and 30th of December, 1817, written by the request of the Council, and signed by 21 chiefs of the Seneca, Onondaga and Cayuga Tribes, in the presence of witnesses chosen to certify its truth. In giving it to the public, you give a just view of the feelings and purposes of our Red Brothers.

The responsibility of publishing this document and other facts that I may communicate in relation to these Indians, I take on myself; the Indians have not been consulted, and are wholly ignorant of my purpose. I trust a sense of imperious duty moves me to bring before the public, a poor, miserable people, who have no helper—ready to perish.

Yours &c. JABEZ B. HYDE.

SENECA INDIANS.

No. I.

Extract of a Talk of the Six Nations, to the President of the United States, sent by mail January 4, 1818, to the secretary of War, for him to communicate to the President.

TO THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

Brother:

It is the desire of the Six Nations assembled at their great Council Fire, in their village near Buffalo, that you would please to lay the following Talk before our father, the President of the United States.

Father:

From the fatherly care the Presidents of the United States have exercised towards their Red Children, we speak to our father in confidence, believing he will not turn away his ears from his Red Children. Having no agent through whom we might speak, we are persuaded that our father will not be displeased that we speak directly to him, as it were, face to face.

Father:

We need not tell you that we are a poor, ignorant people; unacquainted with the great affairs and wise management of our enlightened white brothers. We are distressed and alarmed—We have no where to look but to our father, whom we trust will bear with his children, should their fears appear to him to be groundless.

Father:

We are alarmed lest we lose our seats.—Those men that say they have a right to purchase our lands, have been distressing us for a number of years with their plans to possess our lands; offering us in exchange lands to the westward. We decidedly told them we did not wish to part with our lands, desiring they would be at no more expense in visiting us on this errand, if we should alter our minds we would send them word. Some months after a deputation of our brothers to the west visited us, offering us a large tract of their land a free gift, if we would accept it. We thanked our brothers for their generous offer, and promised at some future time, to send men to view the land. The war took place the next year—nothing more was done or heard of by us of this land, until the spring after the peace, when our brothers again visited us, making the same offer. It never entered into our hearts of leaving our present seats and going to the westward ourselves; but as there were many of the Six Nations in the Western country who had no seat to set on, but what was liable to be sold from under them any day the owners chose, we rose up to consider the offer of our brothers, that we might provide for our scattered children.—Through the assistance of our brothers, Jones and Parrish and another great friend, who advised and assisted us, we laid our circumstances and views before our father, the President of the United States, acquainting him with our offer—that with his approbation we would accept this land, provided the United States would make it sure to us. Our father, the president was pleased to certify his approbation, and that the land should be made sure to us agreeable to our request. On receiving this information from our father, the President, we sent on 8 men to view the land and take its dimensions. Our brother, capt. Parrish, went with them to do the writing, that it might be made sure to us, according to the word of our father, the President. Our men found no land. Col. Ogden (who is said to hold the right of purchasing our land) recommended us to send to Detroit, and Gov. Cass would put us in a way to find our land. We sent six men to Detroit, Gov. Cass informed our men that in September there would be a large Council of Indians of different nations met at Fort Meigs; the Six Nations would do well to have a deputation there, they would then doubtless find their land. We sent 12 men to Fort Meigs; instead of our western brothers having lands to give the Six Nations, they sold the seats from under those that were among them.

Father:

We are distressed. Capt. Parish has informed us that we could now exchange our lands for lands to the westward; he advised us to do it, or we should certainly lose them; for it was the determination of the government of the United States, that the Indians should leave their present seats; those that did not exchange them would lose them.

Father:

We are astonished and amazed! Our old friend, Col. Ogden, has altered his address to us; he has for years talked to us as a man that wished to purchase our lands, if we were pleased to sell. He now writes to us how we shall conduct on his lands which we occupy.

Father:

To whom shall we go, but unto you? We doubt not but many of our white brothers fear God, and ought to be trusted, but how shall we find them?

Father:

We fear that we have been deceived, and your predecessor imposed on. Strange things have come to our ears—that our message to your predecessor which we signed, was very different from what was read to us—that it said we were desirous of leaving our seats here and going to the west—provided we obtained lands to the westward, we relinquished our reservations here. If any thing like this was in our message we were basely deceived. We had but these objects in view, to inform our father, the President, of this offer of our western brothers; the opportunity that it offered for providing for our scattered children—to obtain his approbation and assurance that the land should be confirmed to us by the United States; any thing more, except providing provisions for our men while transacting the business, was as base an imposition as ever was practised.

Father:

We declare to you, we desire you to publish to all our white brethren, that it is our fixed and determined purpose to live and die on our present seats. It is sealed to us by the bones of our fathers. They obtained it by their blood. Our bones shall lie beside theirs. It is the heritage of the Almighty. He gave it us. He it is must take it from us.

Father:

We mean no threat by this. We know we are in the hands of our white brothers, they can destroy us with ease. But they need not think to persuade us to part with our lands.—As free men, we claim the right to choose between being killed outright, or a lingering execution, by being driven a thousand miles into the wilderness. Where, father, where would our white brothers have us go? The Indian claim to land is put out for more than a thousand miles to the west, except little plots for particular nations.

Father:

We have confidence in you: you cannot see your red children with their little ones driven off their land by stealth and fraud, leaving the sepulchres of their fathers, their farms, their farming tools and cattle, dying by families on the road, through hardship and privation. Exchanging all the advances to civilation, and all its comforts for the hardships of the chase without house or friend.

Father:

We have confidence in you; that if you see any device, formed against us, you will frustrate it, and succor your red children.—We have deceived no man; we have wronged no man. Our language has been one; we choose not to part with our land. If we have been needlessly alarmed, you will pity our ignorance, and forgive our childish fears.

Father:

We have many things to say. The character of our agent is of great importance to us. If any come to you for the office, having our request to recommend them, we wish to withdraw that request. We see so little into white men, that we feel incapable of choosing for ourselves.—We desire our father to choose a man that he can trust, and we will confide in him.

Father:

We trust that you will pardon the multitude of our words, and let none deceive you that this is the voice of a few individuals, and not the voice of the Six Nations. It is the united voice of the Six Nations in the state of New-York. The Chiefs of Buffalo, Cataraugus, Genessee and Onondaga are now in council; we have the message of Allegany and Oneida with us, desiring we should speak to our father, the President, entreating him to consider and help us.

Our Father:

Will not be deceived; our words will find his heart. He will receive them.—They are the words of truth and soberness. We ask nothing but wherein we have been mistaken, we may be better informed—wherein we may have been wronged, we may be righted—wherein we may be in danger we may be protected, and that our white brothers may know our fixed purpose of living and dying on our present seats.

Father:

You will pity us; you will forgive us; your wisdom and goodness will succor us. Speak, father, speak to your children, that their minds may be at rest. Speak to their Council Fire at this place. Let us hear your own words; send them by safe hands; for we fear liars are in wait to devour your words, that they may not reach us.

May the Great Spirit preserve you many years a blessing to all your children.

Valuable Land for Sale.

HAVING more land in the tract on which I reside than I can farm to advantage, I will expose to public sale, on the 5th day of NOVEMBER next, if fair, if not the next fair day, eight hundred acres, divided into lots of two hundred acres: each lot has seventy acres in wood;—of the cleared land one hundred and fifty acres are in clover, and two hundred in rye and wheat. This land is situated ten miles below Alexandria, and is bounded north and east by Accotink creek, which separates the lower part of it from Jonathan Janney's mill, where the Alexandria price can be had for grain.—It is as fertile as any land in the county, and as susceptible of improvement, by clover and plaster, as any I have seen. Persons wishing to view it will call on the subscriber, living at Cedar Grove, one mile below Janney's mill.

The terms will be one-third of the purchase money in hand, and the balance in two equal annual payments. The sale will take place at 12 o'clock, on the premises.
EDGAR McCARTY.
Fairfax co. Va. October 6

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1[illegible]0 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

For Sale,

A valuable Farm in Jefferson County.

BY virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Chancery for the Fredericksburg District in Virginia, in a suit wherein the Executors of Gen. George Washington were complainants; and Gerard Alexander, Thomas L. Alexander, (by Ludwell Lee, his appointed guardian) Ludwell Lee, R'd. H. L. Washington, John A. Washington, Bushrod C. Washington, and Mary Lee Washington, were defendants, will be exposed to sale to the highest bidder on the premises, on FRIDAY the 20th day of NOVEMBER next, all that tract of land lying in Jefferson County, Virginia, on Bullskin, commonly called Rockhall, containing 540 acres, now in the occupation of John Saunders.

The above tract of land lies about sixteen miles from Winchester, and about six from Charlestown, on the main road leading from Winchester to Baltimore, the city of Washington and Alexandria. It is well adapted to plaster and clover, and is in quality little inferior, if at all, to any farm in that fertile valley. The improvements on it are a large two story frame dwelling house, a barn and other necessary out houses.—The water is limestone and of excellent quality.

The terms of sale will be one-third of the purchase money, and the balance to be paid with interest, in one, two and three annual instalments, to be secured by a deed of trust on the property.

Any person wishing to view the land will be shewn it upon application to John A. Washington or Bushrod C. Washington, living near it.

Auction & Commission Store.

NATHL. P. BIXBY & CO. respectfully inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken that large and commodious store formerly occupied by the late Mr. Thomas Robinson, nearly opposite the Union Bank, Bridge-st. where they will transact all kinds of business in the Auction and Commission line; and as they are determined to give their exclusive attention to that business alone, those gentlemen who are disposed to employ them, have the best guarantee that they will be fairly dealt by. They flatter themselves that a punctual, diligent, and correct attention, together with their general knowledge of business, will secure to them at least an equal share of public patronage. Their intention is to avoid, as much as possible, retailing goods at auction. They are now prepared to receive goods of every description, to sell at public or private sale, and will attend to sales of property at any place within the town.

Gone to the Southward or Westward,

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two weeks ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.
HANNAH DETCHER.

PROPOSALS,
By Gideon Fairman, John Binns and Charles S. Parker,
TO PUBLISH
A Splendid Edition of Washington's Farewell Address.
To the People of the United States.

THE world has seen enough of warriors and of Heroes—enough of Statesmen—of men who have guided Armies in the field, or dictated as Sages in the Cabinet, for the exclusive purpose of Ambition. History from its earliest page to the present day, has offered to our contemplation, only ONE WASHINGTON, but ONE MAN, whose dangers in war, and labors in in peace, were undertaken and supported with a single eye, to the benefit of his country; whose wonderful and honorable success, was the plain result of wisdom in design, and valour in execution; whom danger never appalled, nor defeat depressed; who, persevering in the justice of his cause, wooed Victory till he won her: who covetted no reward but the well earned approbation of those whose interest he lived to promote: who renounced all public honors, when they ceased to be the necessary instruments of good to the people, whose gratitude conferred them: who superior to all Monarchs, was content to be called the American Citizen. His career of glory through life was unstained by crime; and his death was felt as a loss by every individual of that community, whose political existence was the fruit of his exertions.

THE FAREWELL ADDRESS of General Washington is the condensed result of long experienced, matured reflection and strong anxiety for the permanent prosperity of his country. His advice concerning the great importance of maintaining indissolubly the federal Union: the danger of indulging too much in party feelings:—the necessity of supporting public credit at home:—of maintaining public faith in all our transactions with foreign nations: of encouraging foreign intercourse free from foreign attachments:—are so many lessons of prudence which we should do well to bear in constant remembrance. Why therefore should not his legacy of wisdom and affection, be so published, as to admit of being constantly before our eyes? An ornament to our apartments, while it serves as a memento to guide our public feelings, and to manifest that the author lives in our memories?

To make it such, is the aim of the proposed Edition.

The Publishers are determined that the Address shall be printed on paper of the same quality and size as the splendid edition of the Declaration of Independence now engraving, & shall in all respects be a companion worthy that great State paper.

As errors are known from various causes to find their way into the most important writings, the publishers feel it their duty, not only to satisfy themselves, but to satisfy the public, of the authenticity of the copy from which this splendid Edition of the Farewell Address shall be published.

MR. GEORGE BRIDPORT will complete the Design; of which the following is an outline:—The introductory part of the Address, in highly finished ornamental penmanship, shall form the upper part;—the other parts of the plate, shall be appropriate ornaments;—in the centre below shall be engraved, from an historical design for this publication by Mr. Sully the Surrender of the British Army at York-town, October 19, 1781.

The Address itself shall be printed with type of a peculiar and appropriate character, designed for this purpose by Mr. Fairman, and to be cut and cast by our best artists. No more of the type shall be cast than will be necessary to execute this Address; & when it shall be compleated, the type and the matrices in which it was cast shall be utterly destroyed; so that no other work shall ever be executed by the same letter which shall have printed the "FAREWELL ADDRESS" of him who lived and died, first in War; first in Peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen.

The paper, of the first quality, 36 by 26 inches, will be made by MR. Amies. The INK shall be carefully prepared, and of the best materials.

The signature of General Washington from which it is proposed to execute a fac simile for this publication, is that which he affixed to the Constitution of the United States, when he signed it as President of the Convention in which it was framed; Thus associating and concentrating some of the greatest events in the life of this great man and in the history of his Country.

The ornamental writing will be designed and executed in the very best manner; the ornamental parts of the design and vignette, will be engraved by G. FAIRMAN: and the Typographical part executed by John Binns. They will take especial care of the execution of their several duties in this respect, and they will call to their aid, all that liberality, zeal and industry can command from the Sciences and Arts, so as to make the "Farewell Address" no mean specimen of the state of the Fine Arts in the United States.

As much progress has already been made in designing and procuring materials for this splended edition of Gen. Washington's "Farewell Address," it is expected it will be ready for delivery, with the Splended Edition of the Declaration of Independence, in the month of December next. That the public may have a more perfect view of the design and style of execution, than can be given in a propos[illegible] of this Tribute to the memory o[illegible]m who was "a Conqueror for the Freedom of his Country! A "Legislator for its Security! A magistrate for its Happiness," it is not intended to solicit any Subscsiptions until the Ornamental parts of the plate shall be executed. It will then be submitted for public inspection and public patronage, at five dollars a Copy, payable on the delivery of the Engraving.
Philadelphia, July 31.
